Bearcats set record, march to second-place finish in state finals

By Meaghan Downs
News staff

With only five minutes to go before their semifinal performance Saturday, the Anderson County Marching Bearcats were running. Band director Patrick

Brady and 86 Anderson County high school and middle school students sprinted the half mile from their warm-up field to South Oldham High School after confusion over schedule logistics gave the band only minutes to make it to its semi-final performance. The band didn't jog or walk briskly, Brady said Monday morning. They flat-out ran, he said. Once the pre-show music hit, however, the students skipped onto the field. Musicians held hands, stretched their arms out to fly like airplanes as they embraced their inner child for "Imagination," this year's marching band show focusing on childhood wonderment. After worrying that his mistake cost the band a trip to the finals, Brady knelt to the ground in relief when he found out that not only would Anderson County be performing at 4A state finals, but the band also captured

Sheriff's Halloween event now at Eagle Lake

Bad weather prompts Young, others to pass out candy indoors

From staff reports

Worried that stormy weather in the forecast for Halloween will ruin your children's trick-or-treating?

Don't fret. Sheriff Troy Young announced Tuesday afternoon that he is moving his annual Project Safe Streets to Eagle Lake

Young

Convention Center, pavilion two, to allow children and their parents a chance to enjoy Halloween without worrying about the weather.

The event was previously scheduled to be held in front of the courthouse in concert with the City of Lawrenceburg's Trick or Treat on Main. City officials said late Monday that the event will remain on Main Street, as scheduled.

Young said businesses and church groups planning to pass out candy are welcome to join him, adding that County Attorney Bobbi Jo Lewis and County Clerk Jason Denny have already decided to pass out candy at Eagle Lake.

The Anderson News will also be there, and the Anderson County High School team is scheduled to perform.

Eagle Lake Convention Center owner Brad Smith is donating the facility for the event, Young said, and will also provide tables and chairs to businesses passing out candy.

The sheriff's office will pass out candy, glow sticks and reflective bags.

First responders work to extract a driver whose vehicle was hit head-on early Tuesday morning on US 127 Bypass by another vehicle that apparently turned off US 62 and drove north in the southbound lane.

Two seriously hurt; heavy fog blamed

Man apparently turns wrong way on Bypass, smacks another driver head-on

By Ben Carlson
News staff

One man was in critical condition and another serious following a head-on collision Tuesday morning on US 127 Bypass.

Fog described as "heavier than pea soup" was likely the main culprit in the wreck caused when one driver apparently turned left off of US 62 and travelled north in the southbound lane before striking another vehicle head-on in front of the Hill of Beans convenience store on the Bypass.

Dylan Tucker was traveling south in his Chevy S10 about 5:30 a.m. when his vehicle collided with a vehicle driven by Michael Devine, 55 of 1353 Mays Road, Lawrenceburg, according to officials at the scene.

No other identifying information was available at press time for Tucker.

Devine apparently thought he was traveling in the northbound lane when his vehicle struck

Grand jury indicts Aspen Drive man for fourth DUI

Police say Carter swerved onto sidewalk near Century Bank

From staff reports

A Lawrenceburg man is scheduled to be arraigned Tuesday in Anderson Circuit Court on his fourth charge of driving under the influence, according to court documents.

The charge is a Class D felony.

Derek Z. Carter, 34, of 319 Aspen Drive was indicted Oct. 22 by a grand jury after being charged in August with driving under the influence, fourth offense, illegal possession of a controlled substance and possession of drug paraphernalia. The illegal possession charge was dismissed by the grand jury.

Officer Brian Crouch spotted Carter Aug. 6 at 3:23 p.m. driving on Glensboro Road when his vehicle crossed the center line twice and then ran up onto the sidewalk in front of Century Bank, according to police reports.

Crouch chased Carter's vehicle before pulling it over several minutes later on West Court Street, according to his report.

Crouch reported that Carter could not stand without assistance and was in possession of two types of Valium at the time of his arrest.

Fox Creek Christian to host 'Harvest for Haiti' fundraiser

Group's goal is to raise enough to ship 100,000 bags of rice

By Meaghan Downs
News staff

One bag of rice feeds six children.

The rice, fortified with vitamin- and nutrient-rich dehydrated vegetables, soy and protein powder, tastes a little bland to their palates, Harvest for Haiti fundraiser organizers Lisa Floyd and Donnie Campbell said.

But Floyd and Campbell, who recently returned on Oct. 20 from their mission trip to Haiti, said they've seen the difference that plain-tasting rice makes in the lives of Haitian children.

They're hoping 100,000 bags of rice and $20,000 makes an even bigger dent.

"You can see the difference in their health," Campbell, who has made eight mission trips to Haiti, said. "You can see it in their eyes, see it in their actions."

Tucker's, officials said.

Tucker appeared to sustain the most serious injuries and was listed as critical as of press time, according to Emergency Management Director Bart Powell.

Devine was in serious condition.

Both were transported to the University of Kentucky Medical Center's trauma center, Powell said, adding they were transported by Anderson County EMS because the fog was too thick to allow a helicopter to safely fly.

Both men had to be extracted from their vehicles by what appeared to be at least 20 county and city firefighters who utilized an array of rescue equipment, including hydraulic cutting tools.

Devine was the first to be removed after firefighters cut the driver's side door off his pickup.

Tucker's extraction took much longer as firefighters first had to remove the roof of his demolished pickup then attempt to free him from the crumpled dashboard and steering wheel that had him pinned into his seat.

"The wreck woke me up from a sound sleep," nearby resident Dale Peavler commented on The Anderson News' Facebook page. "The fog was so thick I couldn't even see their headlights out my back door."

The fog caused a rash of traffic problems for first responders, who parked emergency vehicles at the intersection of the Bypass and Highway 44 to warn oncoming drivers of the incident. They then closed the southbound lane and directed traffic onto Highway 44, to Main Street and down Broadway during the morning commute.

The fog was still thick later Tuesday morning and was the likely cause of another less serious wreck on the Bypass in front of Kroger. There was also a report of a wreck on McCormick Lane.

The heavy fog persisted through the day, delaying reconstruction efforts by the Kentucky State Police, which is investigating the wreck.

Lawrenceburg Police initially investigated before handing it off to KSP. Also at the scene was the Anderson County Sheriff's Office.

Library trustees hear more on expansion plans

By Ben Carlson
News staff

The Anderson Public Library's Board of Trustees got a glimpse Monday night at what the $15,000 it authorized to spend for a feasibility study on expansion will buy.

Monica Sumner, an architect with design firm Brandstetter Carroll Inc. of Lexington presented trustees with the $15,000 contract, saying the study will provide a wealth of information to help them decide if they want to move forward with expansion plans.

In June, Sumner presented trustees with a preliminary sketch, including two large additions of 1,000 square feet each, the relocation of the library's history room and modifications to the circulation desk and children's area.

On Monday, Sumner told trustees that the feasibility study would evaluate the library's needs, its facility and expansion costs.

"You'll have a document to help you make a decision on the next step," Sumner said. "We won't proceed unless you authorize this, whether it's in six months or six years."

Trustees have been hesitant to expand for the past couple of years, and nearly pulled the plug on the idea when it was sued earlier this year by a local man who claims the library board has violated state statutes in raising its tax rates over the past several decades.

That lawsuit closely mirrors suits filed in northern Kentucky, which have been upheld in two circuit courts but are in limbo waiting for appeals.

The lawsuit drew hesitation last month from trustee Jane Scott Bentley, who said the board should wait until the lawsuit is resolved before expanding.

Following her presentation Monday, Sumner was asked how long the feasibility study, including estimated construction costs, would remain valid.

"It will be valid quite a while," she said outside of the meeting room, "unless there is an odd amount of growth or depression."

Lawrenceburg, Campbell and Floyd want to continue feeding the hungry of Haiti through "Harvest for Haiti," a fundraiser being held Nov. 9 at Fox Creek Christian Church's Life Center.

The goal: Fill 100,000 bags of food and raise $20,000 to cover the costs of the food and shipping.

The deadline: Eight hours.

With the event split into three time slots, Harvest for Haiti volunteers will be working in groups to funnel rice, vegetables soy and vitamins into bags, weigh the bags, seal them for a three-year shelf life, pack them into boxes, then load the food into trucks to be distributed through Mission Journeys.

Floyd said after a group returned from Haiti in February, Mission Journeys — the organization that sponsors regular mission trips to Haiti with Lifeline Christian Mission and past Harvest for Haiti events in Lexington — contacted Fox Creek Christian to see if the community would be inter-Harvest for Haiti, a fundraising event offered through faith-based organization Mission Journeys at Fox Creek Christian Church, offers volunteers the opportunity to pack nutritious, rice-based meals for the hungry in Haiti.

Time: The event will be split into three "sessions." Session 1: 9-11 a.m. Session 2: 12:30-2:30 p.m. Session 3: 3-4:30 p.m.

ested in a Harvest for Haiti event in Lawrenceburg.

"For me, that's what's awesome about being able to bring an event like this to the city of Lawrenceburg," Floyd said, sitting in the fellowship hall of Fox Creek Christian with Campbell before a group meeting with other organizers last Wednesday evening. "We are seeing these bags to be able to feed the children in the school we work."

Although Campbell and Floyd said Mission Journeys would be sending meals all over Haiti, not just specifically to the village of Dufailly where they worked, they're excited about the opportunity to talk about their trip.

Photos and videos from the October mission trip to Haiti will be shown as volunteers work, Floyd and Campbell said.

"You can take anybody from here in Lawrenceburg, tell the story, and they can physically help with the need of it," Campbell said.

The event will also feature music and food for the people participating in packing the bags.

Floyd said Harvest for Haiti organizers also received donation items that they're planning on auctioning off to raise more money such as University of Kentucky men's basketball tickets, a Calipari-signed basketball and University of Kentucky print photography.

Floyd said more than 300 volunteers from Anderson County and surrounding areas in central Kentucky have already committed to attending, but they're looking to get even more people to sign-up to guarantee 100,000 bags are filled. They've raised about $2,500 so far toward the $20,000 goal.

Campbell, who said statistics show that Haitian children typically only get one meal a day, doesn't believe that Haiti needs help because it's more important than any other country.

But if you're hungry, you're hungry, he said.

And Harvest for Haiti is a chance for Lawrenceburg residents to make a global impact, Floyd said.

"I strive to make an impact daily in my local community, because we all have an opportunity to that day to day," she said. "It's hard to put into words, but when you go to Haiti, you see the needs and you see the children. When you come back, you don't come back with your whole heart."

Both Floyd and Campbell said they're planning on returning to Haiti in the next year.

Lord willing.

Medicaid flourishing here, not Obamacare

Here's how to avoid 'Unaffordable Care Act' tax penalties

Uh oh. That was my takeaway after watching Gov. Steve Beshear's appearance Sunday on "Meet the Press." Paraded out by Democrats looking for something, anything positive to say about Obamacare, Beshear was supposed to trumpet how well Kentucky has done signing up people for the controversial health tax (yes, I said tax, not law, and point to the Supreme Court decision to back it up).

Beshear did an admirable job spouting that there have been roughly 25,000 sign-ups and heralding the state's ability to create a website that actually works.

But when pressed Beshear admitted that of those 25,000 sign-ups, 20,000 have signed up for Medicaid, not Obamacare. If that trend continues Kentucky, let alone the rest of America, is going to have a big problem.

Here's why: Those signing up for Medicaid, which Beshear unilaterally expanded, aren't the types of people needed to make Obamacare work. Needed are young, healthy people who wouldn't otherwise purchase health insurance but are needed to generate enough money to insure the old and poor.

In short, it's designed to redistribute an incredible amount of wealth from young people in order to provide the so-called subsidies for the old and poor.

Without huge numbers of young people signing up, Obamacare will quickly go bust.

As for Kentucky, Beshear landed millions of federal dollars to expand Medicaid, but that's a temporary windfall and paying for all of these additional Medicaid patients will soon be the responsibility of taxpayers here.

The school board, which on Monday voted to spend nearly $1,000 in a thinly veiled lobbying effort disguised as a study, ought to be grateful for the state funds it does receive because once the bills for expanded Medicaid become Kentucky's responsibility, state funds will become even more difficult — if not impossible — to obtain.

Speaking of the Obamacare tax ...

Every tax law has loopholes and this one's no different. Companies like General Electric, Google and others use loopholes to avoid paying any taxes at all, so there's no logical reason those who don't want to purchase Obamacare can't do the same.

Although Obamacare is a tax, it's set up a little differently in that if you don't get a year-end tax refund, you simply don't have to pay the tax penalty for not signing up.

All one needs to do is set up their payroll deductions in a way that precludes them from getting a refund — no harm, no foul.

And, unlike other taxes, if you don't pay it does not accrue interest and penalties and the IRS can't place a lien on bank accounts and property.

"Mr. Carlson, you know full well that what you advise purposefully violates the spirit of this law," Obamacare supporters will say. "You're just being irresponsible."

Really? Does GE not paying taxes violate the spirit of the law? What about Google? They hire high-end tax attorneys and accountants for the express purpose of not paying taxes, which is both admirable and well within their rights. There's absolutely no reason an individual shouldn't be able to use every accounting method or loophole to do the same.

"Well, Mr. Carlson, those who don't sign up are going to get sick or injured and need healthcare at some point."

Absolutely. That's why if they do get sick and haven't taken the initiative to save for their own medical care, all they need to do is take advantage of yet another loophole by signing up for Obamacare, which covers their pre-existing condition.

I didn't write this goofy "law," so don't blame me.

Speaking of law ...

One last thing on Obamacare then I'll stop.

Back when Ted Cruz and House Republicans were hyperventilating over defunding Obamacare, its supporters countered that that Obamacare is "settled law" because it was voted on and upheld by the Supreme Court.

OK, but since when were settled laws suddenly out of bounds for those looking to have them changed?

My goodness, the 2nd Amendment has been settled law for over 200 years and, unlike Obamacare, is in the freakin' Constitution!

But that hasn't stopped the anti-gun forces from trying to undo it, now has it?

If we were to settle for every so-called settle law ever written, blacks and women would not be allowed to vote, so to even infer that Obamacare or any other law is settled is simply foolish.

$1M healthcare question

Ben, the man pictured directly above me on this page, recently handed me a news article about $1 million.

Turns out that during a recent school board meeting in Woodford County, the Woodford County school board learned they could face $1 million in Affordable Care Act or Obamacare penalties if it failed to offer adequate health insurance to those full-time employees working 30 hours a week.

Penalties only kick in if the district failed to offer insurance to roughly 25 people or 5 percent of full-time employees, about as many substitute teachers as Woodford employs on an average day.

If their part-time work translated to 30 full-time hours a week, Woodford County could find itself laying out big money in healthcare penalties.

According to the Woodford Sun in an article titled "Board learns how ACA will affect schools," their school board asked to approve a subscription to a software management program to track how many hours their part-time employees work.

So could Anderson County, a little smaller than Woodford County in number of full-time employees, also be in danger of facing about $1 million in penalties?

According to Finance Officer Nick Clark and Superintendent Sheila Mitchell, that's not likely to be the case.

Clark said out of the 490 full-time employees currently working for the Anderson County School District, no one falls into the category of working a 30-hour week but not being offered health insurance by the district.

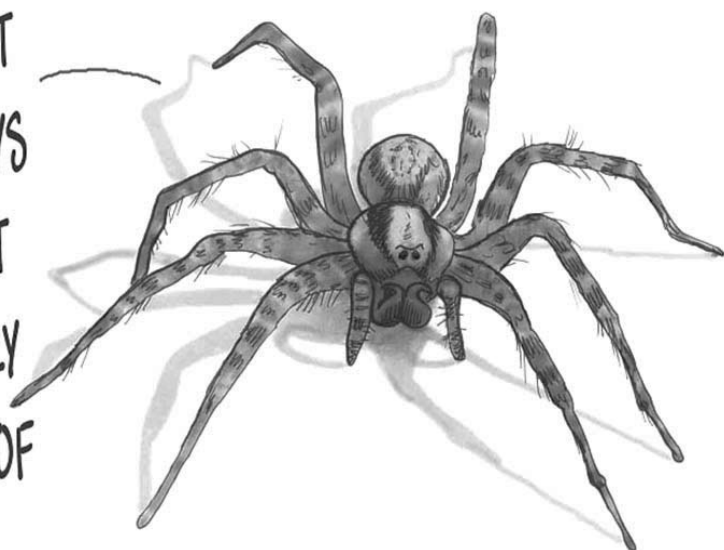

It would take about 24 employees to trigger the 5 percent penalty cutoff.

Hamburger, ground beef aren't same

Is there a difference between hamburger and ground beef? The answer is yes but it's not a big difference.

Ground beef must be made of trimmings that contain the targeted fat percentage. For example, if a package is labeled 80 percent lean/20 percent fat ground beef, then the beef trimmings that the ground beef is made from must contain those percentages. On the other hand, hamburger may be made of beef fat added to the meat block to create the desired fat percentage.

New cooks may wonder if ground beef is still safe to use if it's brown in the center. The answer is yes, it's safe. Generally, the ground beef on the outside edge of the package is bright cherry-red, while the middle may be a darker brown. This is because of myoglobin, which is similar to hemoglobin in humans. Myoglobin is bright red when exposed to oxygen. The center of ground beef isn't exposed to oxygen, so the center is darker brown. The darker color inside doesn't mean the beef is older.

The ratatouille soup recipe below combines ground beef with eggplant. This recipe uses ingredients that are easy to find. Consider visiting the Anderson County Farmer's Market for eggplant and other delicious vegetables. There are plenty of pumpkins there for good eating and holiday decorating. Eggplant is related to tomatoes, peppers and Irish potatoes. It's a popular vegetable in Asian, Middle Eastern, Greek and Italian cuisine. It's thought that the eggplant was introduced to America by Thomas Jefferson.

Eggplants are available all year but the main growing season is from June to October. Eggplant can come in different shades of purple, as well as various shades of green and white. When selecting eggplant, look for a medium sized eggplant, 3 to 4 inches in diameter, with smooth, uniformly colored skin. Tan patches, bruises or scars indicate decay.

Avoid eggplants with wrinkled or damaged skin. When pressed gently the finger mark left on the eggplant, will disappear quickly if the eggplant is fresh. Eggplant should feel heavy for its size. The stem and camp should be bright green.

Eggplant can be stored in the refrigerator for about a week. Preservation of eggplant is best done by freezing.

Eggplant has a small amount of nutrients and is mostly made up of water. It's low in calories and contains some folate and potassium. One cup of cooked, cubed eggplant has only 28 calories and contains 2.5 grams of dietary fiber, 246 milligrams of potassium and 15 micrograms of folate. Increasing dietary fiber in our diets has been shown to contribute to lowering the risk of cardiovascular disease.

Eggplant is a versatile vegetable and can be baked, broiled, grilled, fried, stuffed or used in a variety of casseroles, in combination with other vegetables. Be mindful that eggplant is "spongy" and will absorb oil in the cooking process when fried. This will lead to increased fat content in the finished recipe. It works well with tomatoes, garlic, onions and cheese. One pound equals 3 cups diced. Eggplant should be peeled before preparation.

Ratatouille Soup

12 servings, 1 cup each

1 small eggplant, peeled and cubed
1 pound lean ground chuck
1 tablespoon canola oil
1 medium zucchini, chopped
1 medium bell pepper chopped
1 small onion, chopped (about 1/2 cup)
1 tablespoon finely minced garlic (about 3 cloves)
14.5 ounce can low sodium beef broth
24 ounce jar chunky garden style pasta sauce
2 cups water
1 teaspoon dried basil
1 cup uncooked whole grain pasta

In a large, heavy pot, brown the ground beef over medium heat until crumbly and no longer pink. Drain. Rinse cooked beef with water if desired to remove more fat. Raise the heat to medium-high. Add the canola oil, return the beef to the pot.

Add the zucchini, bell pepper, onion and garlic. Cook together for 5-7 minutes, until onion is translucent.

Leaves help brighten November doldrums

Are you ready to travel back in time? You don't even have to pack a bag. You just have to remember to change all your clocks. At midnight, this Sunday, Daylight Savings Time officially ends. Soon, we'll be driving home from work in the dark.

I'll miss my evening walks with the dogs after work. I'll miss hopping on the mower after work. I'll miss weeding and harvesting in the garden after work. The only things I get to pick now are the stick tights covering my clothes.

I don't classify picking up dropped walnuts as picking. It's more of a gathering. And if you think all that bending over isn't worth it, you haven't seen the price of nuts in the store. Need a little more motivation? Just think of all the chocolate chip cookies those nuts can go in this winter.

Everything changes with the seasons. Our laundry goes from morning chores to an all day event. Kitchen clutter changes as well. Coffee mugs line the counter, even if you don't drink the stuff. Remnants of hot cocoa and hot cider color the cups. Coat racks fill up over night and the rows of shoes and boots by the back door grows faster than mint. The 11th month is upon us.

The root word in November is novem, the latin word for nine. In the early Roman calendar, it was the ninth month. I think of it as the numbing month, our hands and feet get numb. Heck, our average first snowfall is around the 16th. Now there's a fact I'd like to forget.

The color of the fall leaves help to put a smile on my face. My view of the landscape changes from 50 shades of green to a colorful cornucopia of yellow, orange and red set among the cedars. There are lots of leaves still on the trees and you know what that means. Prepare for a cold winter.

Here is something I don't say every day, "Stop reading this column." Put down the paper and grab the cooking oil. Go outside and spray the rubber tubing around your car doors. Next time we get a freezing rain, you'll still be able to open your doors. You'll have to refresh it every month throughout the winter, but it sure beats having to chip away at the stuff while standing in the freezing cold.

While you're up, check the cupboard for all your cold and flu remedies. Got honey, lemon and whiskey? Got chamomile tea? Got ginger root for tea? How about Golden Seal and cayenne pepper capsules? All good things to have on hand to make you feel better, quicker.

Don't forget to check your bottle of skunk soap. Pepe Le Pew still roams the hills, especially after dark. Dogs get curious when they see a pair of eyes glowing in the night and if they're big goof balls, they will probably get sprayed. Mix up one quart of hydrogen peroxide, 1/4th cup of baking soda, and one teaspoon of plain Joy dish soap. Wet the dog, then work in the shampoo. Leave it on for 5 minutes before rinsing.

Now, we still have lots of days of sunshine left and I for one plan on soaking in as much warmth as possible. Cold to the bone weather will be here before we know it, no matter what the time on the clock says. Happy growing.

“That is the purpose of the measurability period,” Clark said via e-mail, referring to the 12 months the district has to track hours of its employees. “It will allow us to track employees to see if we have anyone that will meet the requirements to qualify for insurance.”

That doesn’t mean the district won’t be keeping a close eye on hours, but without the aid of new software.

Mitchell and Clark said they’d be monitoring average hours of transportation department staff, classified staff that serve in clerical positions, substitute teachers and any other part-time staff who may be working full-time hours and would therefore qualify for full-time benefits.

According to healthcare.gov, employers with 50 or more employees face the following penalties:

· If you don’t offer insurance, the annual payment is $2,000 per full-time employee (excluding the first 30 employees); or

· If you do offer insurance, but the insurance doesn’t meet the minimum requirements, the annual payment is $3,000 per full-time employee who qualifies for premium savings in the federal “marketplace.”

For Anderson County, 2,000 times 490 equals $980,000 in penalties.

Clark and Mitchell both said they’ve been attending training sessions about the new health care law. Clark said most of the trainings he’s attended have definitely emphasized the free-rider penalty provision of the law to school staff.

For good reason, I’d say.

With rain in the forecast for Halloween, the weather looks like it’ll be giving Anderson County trick-or-treaters a dark and stormy night straight out of a horror movie.

School board funds study to fight state cuts

Sargent: 'We want our money back'

By Meaghan Downs
News staff

The Anderson County school board wants more state funding for district education, and believes adopting a resolution Monday will help appeal its cause to Kentucky lawmakers.

School board president James Sargent, recently selected to serve a three-year term on the Kentucky School Boards Association (KSBA), presented the KSBA's funding resolution to his fellow board members Monday night.

Sargent said the KSBA is asking school boards across Kentucky to adopt the funding resolution in an effort to communicate the need for fewer state cuts and the struggle of local school boards regarding local tax increases to make up the difference.

"We're tired of it, and we want our money back," Sargent said of funding cuts.

McDowell asked if the resolution had "any teeth to it," or if it was just a formal disapproval by the Anderson County school board about state funding cuts.

Superintendent Sheila Mitchell explained that the resolution is appealing to Kentucky legislators to return state Support Education Excellence in Kentucky (SEEK) funding back to the 2008 levels.

According to Chief Finance Officer Nick

Clark in an May 22 article in The Anderson News, total enrollment and Average Daily Attendance (ADA) numbers for Anderson County have not been increasing, resulting in about $294,000 less in SEEK revenues or $6 less per student for 2013-2014.

The total amount allocated for state education funding, at $60 million total, has remained the same, Clark said, but population growth across the state has resulted in SEEK decreases per student.

The majority of the district's revenue — about 56 percent — comes from state SEEK funds.

Sargent said the funding resolution shows the local school board is taking a stand.

"We're not taking a back seat anymore," Sargent said.

All five board members approved the funding resolution.

As part of the resolution, the board will also spend $853 to help fund a Council for Better Education Adequacy study as part of the KSBA funding resolution proposal. The board voted 4-1 in favor of partially funding the study.

Anderson County's monetary contribution for the study was determined by the district Average Daily Attendance (ADA) data, Mitchell said.

Mitchell said the purpose of the study is to provide information to state and local officials about district education funding.

Board member Scott Brown initially made a motion to spend $1,000 to be put toward the study and help other districts that may not be able to afford to participate, but later amended his first motion when he failed to get a second.

Board member Donna Crain Drury said she was voting against the study because she believed the board needed more information on how the study would be conducted, and what the data would be used for before moving forward with participation.

Board approves Advanced Placement fees

The board unanimously approved to spend a total of $5,982 in AP exam fees for the year.

The total cost includes a $1,350 website registration fee. Superintendent Mitchell said the board would be spending about $200 less than last year or $12 per student.

KETS offer of assistance for technology approved

The board unanimously approved to match $34,125 given by the state to purchase technology. The KETS match by the school board, required in order to receive $34,125 from the state, is a budgeted item, Chief Technology Officer Bret Foster said.

Closed Frankfort theater sparks movie interest in Lawrenceburg

Expert says many factors would have to be considered

By Ben Carlson
News staff

News that the movie theater in Frankfort is closing at the end of the year and leave Lawrenceburg moviegoers without a nearby place to watch a flick sparked questions over whether a movie theater would be a viable option here.

That enthusiasm was tempered a bit when it was announced days later that a new theater is planned to replace the old one, likely leaving Lawrenceburg without its own movie theater for years to come.

Lawrenceburg, with a population of about 21,000, might support a small movie theater, but a hard look at the city's demographics and other factors would first be required, according to an expert at locating movie theaters into communities.

"The old rule of thumb used to be that you had to have 10,000 population for every screen," said Richard Herring, owner of a Virginia-based company called Start a Movie Theater.

"There are areas where we have done it with fewer than 5,000 per screen," he said, meaning that at that ratio, Lawrenceburg could qualify for up to four screens.

Herring said when deciding on a location, he looks at median household income and cost of living index to see how they compare to state averages.

"We try to make a determination as to how much disposable income the average family has, especially if there is a growing demographic.

"In determining if a community is able to support a theater, all of these factors plus a whole lot more go into it — that's what I do."

Herring said movie theaters prove to be good economic drivers for communities due to the crowds they typically draw.

"They generate a lot of traffic," he said, adding that restaurants and other stores typically pop up nearby. "Developers love to have a theater there."

They don't come cheaply, though, with developers often spending millions of dollars to make a movie theater operational.

Herring said some communities will offer economic incentives to attract movie theaters.

"The developers try to get them, but can't always get them," he said. "It depends on the market and where the theater is going to be built.

"Sometimes municipalities desperately want a theater and will provide incentives."

George Leamon, executive director of the Lawrenceburg-Anderson County Economic Development Authority, said the agency would be happy to look over any plans to bring a theater to Lawrenceburg.

"When any business comes to town or wants to expand, we look at incentivizing it," he said. "We are there to assist business and industry."

Judge-Executive John Wayne Conway said he would gladly do whatever is in his authority to assist bringing a theater to town, provided it was approved by the fiscal court.

"Do I think it would be good for Lawrenceburg? Yes sir," Conway said.

"There are two things I'd like to see here: a movie theater and a bowling alley."

Conway said the fiscal court has discussed using incentives to bring restaurants and other businesses here in the past, and a year ago approved an incentive package to support Wild Turkey's ongoing expansion efforts.

Officials urge vaccination following state's first reported cases of influenza

From staff reports

News that the state's first positive cases for influenza this week has prompted local health officials to remind residents that flu shots are now available at the Anderson County Health Department, located on Glensboro Road in Lawrenceburg.

"We still have vaccine," said Tim Wright, the agency's director of public health. "We are giving shots every Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 8 a.m. to 2:30 p.m."

The Kentucky Department of Public Health announced that two cases of flu have been identified in Henderson and Jefferson counties, according to a news release.

Kentucky's flu activity will be classified as "sporadic," the lowest level indicating flu activity, according to the news release.

Flu season typically begins in October or November. Kentuckians are encouraged to get a flu vaccine as soon as their health provider has it in stock, because it takes about two weeks for immunity to develop and offer protection against flu. However, vaccination can be given any time during the flu season, according to the news release.

Local health departments and private health care providers are expected to have adequate supplies of flu vaccine on hand for this year's season, and many providers already have some supplies of vaccine. Additional vaccine shipments should be arriving over the next few weeks. Kentuckians should contact their health care provider or local health department for more information about influenza vaccination.

"Getting the flu can be debilitating and sometimes life-threatening, and vaccination is the best tool we have to prevent illness," said Stephanie Mayfield, M.D., commissioner of DPH. "Kentuckians can also reduce the risk for influenza by following a few simple steps. You should follow the advice your mother gave you to prevent flu and other illnesses that tend to circulate at this time of year — wash your hands frequently, cover your mouth when you cough or sneeze, and stay home when you're sick."

Red Cross offers tips for a safe, yet spooky Halloween

From staff reports

With Halloween right around the corner, the American Red Cross would like everyone to stay safe when they don their costumes and go out to trick or treat, according to a news release from the Red Cross.

Halloween's greatest hazards aren't vampires and villains, but falls, costume mishaps and traffic accidents, so the Red Cross is offering the following tips to help make this Halloween safe:

- Look for flame-resistant costumes.
- Plan the trick or treat route and make sure adults know where children are going. A parent or responsible adult should accompany young children as they make their way around the neighborhood.
- Make sure the trick or treaters have a flashlight. Add reflective tape to costumes and trick-or-treat bags. Have everyone wear light-colored clothing in order to be seen.
- Visit only the homes that have a porch light on. Accept treats at the door — never go inside.
- Instead of masks, which can cover the eyes and make it hard to see, consider using face paint.

- Walk only on the sidewalks, not in the street. If no sidewalk is available, walk at the edge of the roadway, facing traffic. Look both ways before crossing the street and cross only at the corner. Don't cut across yards or use alleys. Don't cross between parked cars.

- Be cautious around pets and any other animals.

- If someone is welcoming trick or treaters at their home, they should make sure the outdoor light is on. Other safety steps include:

- Sweep leaves from the sidewalks and steps.
- Clear the porch or front yard of any obstacles that a child could trip over.
- Restrain any household pets.
- Use a glow stick instead of a candle in the jack-o-lantern to avoid a fire hazard.

People can find all of the Red Cross apps in the Apple App Store or the Google Play Store by searching for American Red Cross or by going to redcross.org/mobileapps.

first place. This season's aspirational mantra “#finalsbound” — boldly proclaimed on the band's T-shirts, bandanas and other gear — was no longer a promise, but a fact. “It's kind of a bold statement that a group that never made finals before made it last year, and said they were going to make it again this year,” Brady said.

Brady said there was a statistically slim chance Anderson County would perform at finals for the second year in a row. After losing 20 high school seniors, the marching band gained 29 middle school students.

But young Anderson County band went on to beat 15 other marching bands in the 4A class, breaking into the top four and receiving their highest score in school history at 93.85 out of 100.

The Marching Bearcats placed second in the state for Class 4A with a score of 89.5, 1.36 points behind 4A repeat state champion Madisonville North Hopkins.

“I was kind of expecting to make finals, but I never tell myself it's going to happen,” Brady said. “Since [marching band is] an opinionated sport, you have to be really careful about setting up kids for failure.”

Much could go awry, especially during a windy and cold day of competition last Saturday. Because playing too long in the 37 degree cold turns the pitch of wind instruments flat and percussion instruments sharp, Brady said, the band sat in the warmth of the bus for as long as possible while band parents helped set up. Usually the band helps, he said.

Anderson County marching band alumni, parents and school staff also helped fill out the cheering section for the band during Saturday's event.

Five principals and a girls' basketball coach from the Anderson County high school and middle school attended Saturday's competition to cheer the marching band on, Brady said, along with most of last year's class of marching band seniors.

Last weekend's state finals won't be the last time the Marching Bearcats will be in competition. The band will be competing Nov. 9 against 42 other bands across the country at the Bands of America Super Regional Championships. The band will be performing at 4:30 p.m. the Colts' Lucas Oil Stadium in Indianapolis, Ind.

Up until 4A state regionals, Brady said, the band hadn't brought home any competition trophies much to the disappointment of some of the band members.

But the band isn't building a closet to house its growing trophy collection.

They're building a legacy, Brady said.

Man jailed for hitting invasion suspect in court Thursday

From staff reports

A Lawrenceburg father who allegedly assaulted one of the men suspected of robbing his Citation Lane home in March is scheduled to appear at 9 a.m. Thursday morning in Anderson County District Court for a disposition hearing. Joshua Hillyer, 40, of 4128 Citation Lane, was arrested and charged in March 2013 for allegedly striking one of the men involved in the home invasion of Hillyer's residence. According to city police at the time of the incident, Hillyer allegedly struck Andrew Muns, 18, of 96 Man-O-War Drive, after Muns refused to allow Hillyer to take him to the city police station. Muns was one of four suspects in the March 1 home invasion where Kendall Cunningham, 18, allegedly held two teenagers at gunpoint while Muns and then 18-year-old Charles D. Peach robbed Hillyer's home and a fourth man, Ryan Ashburn, waited in a car outside. Muns, Peach and Ashburn pleaded not guilty to their charges on March 20. Cunningham, 17 years old at the time of the home invasion, was released from jail Aug. 20 with all charges dismissed following a complaint by his attorney about his case's improper transfer from juvenile to Circuit Court.

Hillyer

The Commonwealth Attorney's Office told The Anderson News in August that they were working with the county attorney's office to eventually transfer Cunningham's case to Circuit Court so he could be tried as an adult. Following a preliminary hearing in May, the Anderson Grand Jury indicted Hillyer on Aug. 20 for assault in the fourth degree, second-degree wanton endangerment, second-degree unlawful imprisonment, all Class A misdemeanors, and one count of menacing, a Class B misdemeanor. Although Hillyer was originally charged with second-degree assault, a Class C felony, the Anderson Grand Jury found that no felony charges were warranted after reviewing evidence, according to district court documents. The grand jury further remanded Hillyer's case back to district court. At the time of his arrest, Hillyer told police that he got out of the car and told Muns he needed to come with him to the police station, according to Anderson News reports. He said Muns refused to go and at one point begged him to let him turn himself in. Hillyer said Muns then dropped what he was carrying and appeared ready to run, so gave him a "light hit" with the baton to "let him know he needed to listen."

Ammunition stored in vehicle goes off

From staff reports

A Ford F-350 pick-up truck became engulfed in flames Monday afternoon after the driver pulled off the Bluegrass Parkway to check the cause of a burning smell in the vehicle.

According to County Fire Chief Mike Barnes, two men from Fayette County were traveling westbound at 12:48 p.m.

Anderson County firefighters put out a vehicle fire Monday afternoon off on the shoulder of the westbound lane of the Bluegrass Parkway, close to mile marker 62.

Monday when something started to smell like it was burning.

They pulled off to the side of the parkway, at about mile marker 62, popped the hood and didn't find anything. Climbing back into the cab of the truck, they pulled off the dashboard cover and the fire flared into the cab.

'And from that point, it just kept growing,' Barnes said of the vehicle fire.

Barnes said what appeared to be handgun ammunition discharged inside the vehicle due to the fire, but before firefighters arrived on scene.

No one was injured in the fire.

The county fire department, EMS and the Anderson County sheriff's office responded to the scene.

Remodeling leaves Walmart customers happy

The reviews are in and Walmart customers are happy. The store, which just celebrated its 30th anniversary in Lawrenceburg with a storewide remodeling and beefed up stock, has received remarkably good feedback from its customers who are enjoying a wider selection of items and more convenience. "Everyone seems to like what we've done," said the store's assistant manager, Mark Willard. "We're really pleased, and so are our customers."

The store, which was originally located in West Park Shopping Plaza when it opened to much fanfare in 1983, moved to its current home in 2006 to even more fanfare.

The jump from a 35,000 square foot location to one nearly five times as large became a public celebration that included "Kentucky Joe," the Kentuckian who rose to fame when he finished in the top four during the second season of the "Survivor" television series.

As a huge crowd gathered that warm July morning in the parking lot, the Anderson County High School Marching Band serenaded eager customers who couldn't wait to get inside.

When the doors flew open, hundreds of customers — some at a steady trot — raced to the four corners of the store, looking for and finding special grand opening deals.

The enthusiasm might not been quite as high in 1983 when Walmart arrived.

Although many were eager to shop, it's almost hard to believe that the worldwide superstore at that time had stores in only 15 states and had yet to hit the big time.

When it opened in August, an article in The Anderson News included a quote from the store's legendary founder, the late Sam Walton.

"We would like to express our enthusiasm of our company's entry into Lawrenceburg," Walton was quoted as saying. "The addition of a new store is always exciting and we want you to know how very proud we are to be a part of your county and state."

The newspaper reported that the original store opened as a "flip store" because its merchandise was arranged opposite to the majority of the chain's facilities at that time.

The reason, company officials said, was to accommodate future expansion, if needed.

That wasn't all that was different about the store, when compared to today's Walmart stores that feature nearly every conceivable electronic gadget and device.

Not only did the store have only 70 employees, the newspaper reported that it would feature "small transistor radios."

Now, 30 years later, the store's recent remodeling brought in items customers had been clamoring for.

"The best part is we have more of an assortment, including fabrics and guns," Willard said. "Those were the two categories our customers really wanted."

Willard said a lot of the store's merchandise has been extended, including candles, which went from eight feet of display to around 40 feet.

"A lot of the categories are larger and we have a better assortment," he said.

Perhaps the favorite part of the renovation has been the self-checkout lines, which allow customers to ring up their own merchandise and pay.

"Everybody loves them," Willard said. "It's much easier and convenient. Personally, it's all I ever use, now."

Real reason to commemorate Oct. 31 isn't Halloween

Tomorrow evening our streets will be abuzz with the sights and sounds of Halloween. Children will be dressed as their favorite super heroes, princesses, pirates and poltergeists. Tricks will be threatened, treats will be given and sugar-highs will abound. Little cowboys and ladybugs will sit among piles of sweet delights, counting their treasures as their parents cringe at the sight of the confection overload. Come Friday morning, Wal-Mart will have sweet deals (pun intended) for all the grownups (me included) who want to get in on the candy rush themselves. This article is not an argument for or against Halloween activities and a Christian's involvement in them (let everyone be persuaded in their own minds, Rom. 14:5). This is, however, a call to remind believers that something far more significant took place on this date 496 years ago; and the ramifications of this event, while largely (and sadly) overlooked by the majority of Christians today, is still felt every time we pick up a Bible or gather together for corporate worship.

Brian Owens

It was on Oct. 31, 1517, that a German monk named Martin Luther, in response to abuses within the Roman Catholic Church of that time, nailed his famous (and perhaps infamous) 95 theses on the door of the church in Wittenberg, Germany, subsequently setting forth a theological deluge that is considered by most scholars to be the start of the Protestant Reformation. Martin Luther was born in 1483 to an austere German Catholic family. His father had intentions for Luther to become a lawyer, but through the providence of God, and a near-death experience in a lightning storm, he became a monk, and eventually a professor of theology. Luther was spiritually sensitive, and struggled greatly with a heavy awareness of his sin and a penetrating fear of God and of hell. He had no rest until, while studying the book of Romans, he came to embrace the biblical doctrine of "justification by faith." This moment not only changed Luther's life, but it would have an earth-shaking historical impact as well. Justification by faith, known by its Latin rendering sola fide, became the theological foundation of what we know today as Protestantism. It is juxtaposed with the Roman Catholic teaching that our justification before God is a combination of both faith and works, whereby we cooperate with God in his work of salvation, but never have true assurance that the work benefits us. But sola fide didn't originate with the Reformers; it isn't a concept that came from the mind of Luther. It originated in the mind and heart of God. It is a truth that is clearly taught in Holy Writ.

Since the triune God is righteous only righteous people can know him; thus our predicament - we are sinners (Rom. 3:23) and our sin separates us from God. For us to know God we need a righteousness imputed to us, one that does not originate with us. Romans 3:22 tells us that this righteous comes through faith in Jesus Christ. It was Luther's realization of this truth that changed him from being a religionist to regenerate follower of the Lord Jesus Christ; and it is this same truth that changes us as well.

Our salvation isn't a matter of religious preference, church membership, baptism or an adherence to a code of conduct; it is a direct result of the sovereign work of God the Holy Spirit bringing about our repentance of sin and exercising of the gift of faith in the person and work of Jesus Christ, i.e., his sinless life, sin-bearing death and sin-defeating resurrection.

By God's grace Luther saw this; and by God's grace we can see it too. Once we do, Oct. 31 will no longer be about candy and costumes; it will be about reformation and renewal. That will put a smile on your face a jack-o-lantern can't match.

AUTHORITY OF CHRIST

The Bible is the inspired, inerrant word of God and it fully furnishes us unto all good works (2 Timothy 3:16-17). We can understand it to be the oracles of God (Romans 3:2) and it containing the complete truth from the mind of God (John 17:17; 8:32). We also need to understand that it is this word of God that will judge us in the last day (John 12:48).

Christ has been given ALL AUTHORITY (Matt. 28:18). Just what does that mean? One of the things that it means is that I can understand exactly what Christ wants and expects me to do (Eph. 3:3-4). That what he says is the truth (John 17:17) and that the Bible is his means of communicating that to us (Heb. 1:1-2). The Scriptures tell us whatever we do, to do it by the authority of God (Col. 3:17).

There are many today that need to realize that to mishandle what Jesus says is damning to their souls and those that hear them. We are instructed not to add or subtract from God's revelation to man (Revelation 22:18-19; Proverbs 30:5-6). The way to make sure that we do not mishandle the word of God is through a diligent effort to be pleasing to God, and that is accomplished by handling aright the inspired word (2 Timothy 2:15). To handle amiss the word of God is to bring a curse on ourselves (Gal. 1:8-9).

Descendants of Lawrenceburg residents to dedicate grave marker on Nov. 2

From staff reports

A dedication and blessing for the late James Edmondson and his two sons, Will and Grover, will be held Nov. 2 at 10 a.m. in the old Lawrenceburg cemetery.

Pastor Jody Stamper of Glensboro Christian Church will officiate.

“It was with the help of staff at the Anderson Co. library who found old obits for James and Will and the death certificate I obtained that proved all three were indeed buried at the cemetery,” descendant Kathy Voxland wrote in a submitted news item.

James’ sons both died of tuberculosis at age 27, Voxland said.

A dedication service for another Edmondson ancestor, Joseph Edmondson, was held in 2011. Voxland writes that since the dedication, she found the location of the original Edmondson home outside Bradfordsville and is still hunting for a photo of the home if one still exists.

Voxland is also looking for photos of James Edmondson and his family if available.

For more information about the dedication, contact Kathy Voxland at 804-818-3006.

Only two days left for 'Misery'

One of the friendly characters featured at 'Misery Manor' gives one woman quite a scare during the haunted house's tour of horrors at Eagle Lake Convention Center. Misery Manor, a Shop with a Cop fundraiser that has been spooking and scaring participants during the month of October, will be open for two more days on Wednesday, Oct. 30 from 7:30-11 p.m. and Thursday, Oct. 31 from 7:30 p.m. until the line is empty. Admission is $5 per person, and all proceeds go to Sheriff Troy Young's Shop with a Cop. For more information, visit www.misery-manor.com.

Women attending 'Misery Manor' last weekend hold onto each other to try to escape the haunted house.

The plight of being just too good

If you think you've got a lot to worry about, consider the plight of Tim Buchanan. You've heard of him, or at least his plight. You see, his high school football team is just too good. Or, in the eyes of one person, too big and bad. By now you have heard about Buchanan's team, the Aledo Bearcats of Fort Worth, Texas, routing Western Hills High, also of Fort Worth, 91-0 in a football game two weeks ago. Repeat. 91-zip.

John Herndon
Sports Editor

The next morning, just after looking at the game film, he got an e-mail stating that a Western Hills parent had filed a complaint, accusing Buchanan of bullying because of the score. Unbelievable.

Friday night, I wanted to see what Anderson County football fans thought would happen if their team took a beating like that. It's never happened, but Friday's game was on the same field where Anderson took what is now officially the worst beating in program history 10 years before.

On Oct. 17, 2003, East Jessamine rolled past the Bearcats 75-0. Two weeks later, Lexington Catholic defeated the Bearcats 77-0, but Catholic had to forfeit that win.

According to the ESPN report, Buchanan spent half-time wondering, "What are we going to do to not score 100?" His team was already up 56-0.

Kelly Ashburn, whose son, Tristin, is Anderson County's starting middle linebacker, seemed unsure of how she would react. "I am shaking my head," she said with a chuckle.

Yep. It's that hard to believe. "Nobody wants to get beat that bad," said Bob Rose, whose son, Joe, is a mighty good kicker for Anderson. "That's pretty bad, but I wouldn't file a complaint. I couldn't believe a parent would do that."

It's one of those stories that is so bizarre it can't be made up.

According to ESPN, Buchanan did everything he could to keep the score down. The play-calling was simple. His starters began coming out in the third quarter, some having played just 16 snaps. He told his punt returner to fair catch the ball.

Obviously, I did not see the game. That same night, I was enjoying a humdinger of a game as Anderson County rallied to beat Franklin County.

But I have seen 60- and 70-point routs with Anderson being on both ends of them.

According to ESPN, Buchanan said, "I can't tell the backups not to play hard. They've worked their tails off all week. They've lifted weights in the off-season. I'm not going to tell them not to play."

Rose could only grin when asked how he would react.

"They take it seriously down there," said Rose, who is originally from the Lone Star state, growing up southwest of Fort Worth.

They should take it seriously. Everyone who plays a game should take it seriously regardless. Football, and other sports, can teach lasting life lessons.

Anderson County fan David Garmon knows a little about being successful in sports. As a high schooler, he was a member of Metcalfe County's basketball team that made the state tournament. He was at East Jessamine Friday night to watch his son, freshman John Paul Garmon, who got to play in the Bearcats' 41-7 rout.

"I think I would practice harder," he laughed when asked what he would do if on the short end of a 91-0 score. "I have had my rear end kicked a few times."

And his coach's reaction? "It wasn't 91-0 but he told us, 'Suck it up,'" Garmon said. We need more "suck it up"

Tough tourney tuneup on Friday

Bearcats, Collins look for momentum, improvement in post-season

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

You have to hand it to Mark Peach and Jerry Lucas. The head football coaches at Anderson County and Collins high schools had no intention of letting their teams have an easy week for the final regular-season football game.

The teams go at it for the first time ever Friday night in Shelbyville. Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

It is unarguably one of the marquee games in Kentucky this weekend.

Anderson County receiver Ross Cox jukes East Jessamine defender Leslie Kahn (4) and Billy Russell (5) on his way to a 49-yard touchdown reception Friday night. Cox later suffered a deep thigh bruise and his status for Friday's matchup was uncertain at press time.

Consider that both have won their respective districts. Anderson comes in at 8-1, Collins at 7-2. Both are probably slight favorites to advance to the state championship game, Collins in Class 4A, Anderson in 5A.

"They were state

Quality? Let's make that high-quality.

Life is good at the top for Bearcats

Defense dominates as Bearcats rout East Jessamine for sixth straight win

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

NICHOLASVILLE - Oh, to have the life of a powerhouse.

It's a life that can have its share of blowouts, like Anderson County's 41-7 romp past East Jessamine Friday, and banter.

"I was happy for Searce," Bearcat defensive end Daris Harvey said while cracking a huge smile. "He just didn't score like me."

Landon Searcy, Harvey's counterpart at the other defensive end spot in the Bearcats' 4-3 defense, had swiped a pass by East Jessamine quarterback Coty Garrett and returned it 19 yards to the Jaguar 20 on the first play of the second quarter.

"It was my first pick," Searcy, a senior, beamed.

And it officially signified the start of a rout.

Three plays later, Zachary Carmichael hit Ross Cox with the first of their three touchdown combos, this one from 11 yards, to put Anderson up 10-0. The Bearcats, now 8-1 and on a six-game winning streak, might have been even more dominant than the final margin would indicate.

Searcy and Harvey were big reasons as the Bearcat defense completely shut down the East Jessamine

GIRLS' SOCCER

Simon Kenton slips past Lady Bearcats

Coach says team was playing best at end

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

The tears were real for the Anderson County girls' soccer team last Monday night.

They flowed after host Simon Kenton scored on what the Lady Bearcats felt was a questionable foul call that resulted in a free kick, which Simon Kenton converted, with seven minutes to play in the opening round of the Eighth Region Tournament.

It would turn out to be the only goal of the game.

But the tears also reflected how much the Lady Bearcats had progressed during a season that ended with a pedestrian 6-14-2 record that in no way reflected their improvement and resilience.

"We were very young, having only four of our five seniors for most of the year," Anderson coach Jason Earnest said. "We did get Joy Andrade back for the last three or four weeks of the season and she was fantastic for us in district and region play. But almost our entire junior class was hurt all season."

No match felt that more than the regional battle.

Junior forward Claire Prater, perhaps the Lady Bearcats' fastest player, was already out with a shoulder injury. Then during the regional game, forward Allie Johnson also went down with an ankle injury, forcing Anderson to rely more on ball control than an attack mode.

Earnest said the change became frustrating as Simon Kenton limited the Lady Bearcats' scoring opportunities.

Meanwhile, the Anderson defense was pushed to the limit. "Simon Kenton is a very good scoring team," Earnest said. "They put a lot of pres-

BRIANNA'S BIG CATCH

Brianna Edwards, 6, didn't want to touch the blue catfish she caught in a farm pond recently. Pawpaw Vitas Edwards took care of that while someone snapped their picture. Mr. Edwards said he threw out the line for her and while he was getting his line ready, she started yelling, 'Pawpaw, I got one. It's bending my pole.' She pulled it to the bank and he got it out of the water for her. He had been promising her all summer that he'd take her fishing and she made up for it with the 20 pound whopper that was almost as long as she is tall. Brianna is the daughter of Chris and Tammy Edwards.

Lady Rams second in regional tournament, bow out at state

From staff reports
 The Christian Academy of Lawrenceburg volleyball team placed second in the regional tournament, held on Oct. 19. Team members Nancy Lee Holt and Brette Elliott were named to the all-region team. The Lady Rams went into the state tournament ranked seventh out of 16 Christian schools in the state playing volleyball. It is the highest a Christian Academy volleyball team has ever been ranked.

At the state, however, the Lady Rams ran into top-seeded Somerset Christian in the first round and were eliminated after a short stay.

In a news release, Lady Rams' coach Meghan Bowling said she was "tremendously pleased with the efforts of our team. It was an amazing accomplishment for a group of girls that started slowly but really came together as a team at the end of the season. I could not be more proud of what they have done this season. We're a very young team, losing only one senior, so we look forward to building this program on the success of this season."

According to a news release, the team was clinging to the words of Romans 8:28, which says, "And we know that in all things, God works for the good of those who love Him, who have been called according to His purpose."

Buser just misses Anderson school record

From staff reports
 Anderson County Middle School runner Elle Buser was just 2/10 of a second off her personal-best time and school record in the state middle school cross country meet Saturday at Masterson Station Park in Lexington.

Buser, who, earlier this year, broke a school mark that had stood since 1982, turned in a 16:25.20 for the 4K race and finished 28th out of 364 runners. Buser is an eighth-grader.

On the boys' side, Jalen Newton, a sixth-grade student, placed 62nd out of 390 runners with a 12:25.6 clocking for the 3K race. Newton was a half-minute off his personal best of 11:55. Newton had missed much of the season with shin splints and was just getting back to form at the state, according to Mustang coach Scott Buser.

onds, but came up short. Collins' only setbacks have come when unbeaten Simon Kenton defeated the Titans on a field goal in the last minute and once-beaten Central Hardin scored the game-winning touchdown in the final minutes.

The teams are that close to both being unbeaten heading into a game that is mainly for pride. And, instead of taking it easy the final week of the regular season, Anderson and Collins are laying it on the line for a chance to get better.

"We, just like them, are trying to advance in the playoffs," said Lucas, who has the same name as his famous uncle, the NBA and Ohio State Hall of Famer. "This is exactly the type of game we want to be in. We want to play teams that will make us a better team."

Peach

And it should be a doozy. The programs have been very similar since Collins was formed out of Shelby County in 2010. That year, both lost in the regional championship game. Since then, both have made it to the state final only to be thrashed by a dominant power. Anderson lost to Bowling Green, 55-3, two years ago while Highlands ripped Collins 47-0 last year.

Collins has won four district crowns in four years, while Anderson has won two and been runner-up twice.

And this year, they are very similar in that both teams can put up lots of points - Anderson averages 39.2 points a game, Collins 36.3. Both are winning by just over three touchdowns an outing.

"They are outstanding," Peach says. "Lawson Page, their quarterback, is real gritty. He has a lot of moxie about him, and they are solid everywhere. There is a reason they went to the state final in 4A."

Page and Anderson quarterback Zachary Carmichael have very similar statistics on the year. Page has thrown for 1,823 yards while Carmichael has 1,746.

Page (6-foot-1, 200) has talked with some mid-major schools as well as the in-state NAIA schools. Running back Dre Farris (5-9, 174) and linebacker Masai Whyte (6-1, 220) have both committed to Western Kentucky while receiver Nathan Sames (6-0, 200) could also play on Saturdays next year. Junior kicker Blanton Creque is considered one of the best in the state.

But Lucas believes the Bearcats can give his team some problems. "Anderson has an outstanding football team," he said in an e-mail. "(My) initial impression is they are well-schooled, well-coached and a hard-nosed football team. They have several players that stand out on the line and in the skill positions."

Through the season, Anderson's line has worn opponents down, but that will be a challenge as Collins two-platoons starters, something almost unheard of at the high school level, and routinely plays over 30 players a game. However, all of the Titans play some on both sides of the ball at some point during the game.

The Bearcats are looking forward to the challenge.

"Oh, absolutely," says senior lineman Landon Searcy, one of the Anderson captains. "It helps a lot going into the playoffs. You go on the road and play a quality opponent, it gives you momentum going into the playoffs."

Linebacker Huston Page, no relation to the Collins quarterback, adds, "Oh, yeah. Every time you play somebody that's good, it gives you a chance to show how good you really are."

The schools have already have had some battles in other sports. Anderson lineman Darius Harvey, who also plays basketball, has been part of the young rivalry. "We always love playing Collins and they love playing us, so it should be a good game," Harvey said.

And it should be one that gets everyone ready for the real season the following week when Anderson hosts Cooper and Collins entertains Louisville Moore. "For the fans, it is great," Peach says. "For our players, it is a good experience."

"We will play a quality opponent on the road and we will probably have to do that sometime in the playoffs, so we get to experience that."

Likewise, Lucas is looking for a festive atmosphere Friday. "They have an outstanding team and the support from their town is second to none," he said. "It will be a great atmosphere for a high school football game."

Cox status uncertain

Anderson County's Ross Cox, one of Kentucky's top multi-purpose players, is questionable for Friday's game at Collins.

Cox, who plays running back, wide receiver, defensive back and returns kicks, suffered a deep thigh bruise during Friday's win at East Jessamine. He was able, however, to make a recruiting trip to Western Kentucky on Saturday.

"We will just have to see how he responds to treatment," said Peach, who added that Cox's status will be evaluated from day to day.

attack, stuffing the hosts for a minus-17 yards on the ground and 108 yards total offense.

Carmichael and Cox teamed up seven times for 171 yards and three touchdowns. The junior quarterback finished with 282 yards passing, hitting on 15-of-20 throws, and ran for 134 yards on 10 carries.

Cox, considered one of Kentucky's best receivers, had not caught a pass in the rousing win over Franklin County the week before, but had a big night before going down with what was thought to be a deep thigh bruise early in the third quarter.

Anderson piled up 506 yards of offense, averaging better than 10 yards a snap. So dominant were the Bearcats, kicking specialist Joe Rose was never called upon to punt the ball away. However, the senior was perfect on five extra point attempts and nailed field goals from 29 and 33 yards.

"It was a matter of a lot of people chipping in," Anderson coach Mark Peach said.

There was the post-game banter, but for the 48 minutes on the field, the Bearcats were as steely as an assassin, as business-like as a Wall Street broker.

The Bearcats responded after squandering a chance for two touchdowns on their first two drives. Chris Toomey fumbled at the goal line, a sour ending to an otherwise impressive drive that had covered 79 yards in just five plays following the opening kickoff.

Then on third-and-5 at the East Jessamine 12, Carmichael and Cox failed to connect, meaning that the Bearcats' second drive would end with Rose connecting for three points.

Instead of being up 14-0, the Bearcats only led 3-0 after a quarter.

"Every time you give up an opportunity to score, it is a letdown, but we were able to get back up for the next play," senior linebacker Huston Page said.

Indeed.

After Searcy's interception set up the Bearcats first touchdown, Anderson scored on every possession until the middle of the fourth quarter. By that time it was 41-0.

Carmichael and Cox had burned East Jessamine with scoring passes of 49 and 12 yards, while Carmichael capped drives of 47 and 78 yards with touchdown runs.

East Jessamine was simply unable to dent the Anderson defense, save on a 40-yard pass from Garratt to Kahnan Leslie in the second quarter.

"Yes, sir, we did really good," Harvey said when asked about the defensive domination. "They weren't coming at us too hard, and we just locked in on our assignments."

East Jessamine tried some trickery with several reverses on kickoffs, but Anderson did not fall for them.

"Their reverses can be very deceptive," Peach said. "I could not be more proud of how the kids stayed in their lanes tonight."

East Jessamine's only score came late when Brandon Mahan returned a fumble 79 yards for a touchdown. By that time, most of the Anderson players on the field were wearing sparkling white jerseys. The dirty work had been done and the starters were out of the game.

Which brings us full circle to Searcy's pick that started the avalanche. It was almost a lineman's dream.

"We tell our linemen if they are going to run screens - and East Jessamine runs a lot of screens - to get over there," Peach said.

Searcy added, "Blake Trimble hit (the quarterback) but right before the play, Coach (Duane) Hammons told me to watch (Leslie). The quarterback threw it right to me."

It was a situation few linemen find themselves in.

"I just got it and ran," Searcy laughed. "I was trying to score."

Alas, East Jessamine's Jaxon Meads pushed Searcy out of bounds 20 yards from paydirt, a note that was not lost on Harvey, who returned one for a touchdown against South Oldham early in the year.

Harvey was asked if he had been giving his teammate lessons on running with the ball.

"I tried to," he said, "but he hasn't taken it to heart."

Harvey, like those nearby, broke into laughter.

That's how life at the top is supposed to be.

sure on our back line. Early on they had a couple of very good chances because they were able to attack off the wings."

Anderson adjusted defensively and got a stellar effort from freshman goal keeper Billie Clark. "She did a super job of covering her near posts early on when they attacked us off the wings. She came off her line extremely well in breakaway situations as well," Earnest said.

But the contest changed late when Anderson was called for a foul just outside the penalty box. Earnest did not agree with the call but admits he did not have a clear view of the play.

"They played a long pass down the left side of the field," Earnest said. "My defender, Lindsay Chelf, uses her body very well and bumps the girl off the ball with her hip and turns away. She wins the ball and clears it but a whistle comes in and the ref awards a free kick just outside the corner of the 18-yard box.

"I questioned the call as I didn't see anything that could be called a foul, as it was fantastic defense. The ref said that Lindsay got an advantage by tugging on the other player's jersey in order to win the space. I couldn't see that as the play was on the other side of the field from us. So, that is possible, but I didn't see it.

"They get the free kick. We had a wall set up but the (Simon Kenton) player that took it placed it perfectly over the wall and just over Billie's fingertips.

"It was disheartening because we had played so well in all of the game."

Anderson was further frustrated when it felt the same exact play happened three minutes later, but no foul was called against Simon Kenton.

"The last three minutes were filled with yellow cards and even a red card as the yellow cards accumulated," Earnest said. "My kids were frustrated with the referees and it showed."

It might have been a microcosm of the entire year that saw the Lady Bearcats struggle offensively time and again. Of the 14 losses, the Lady Bearcats were shut out 11 times.

Yet, Anderson's defense improved to the point that the Lady Bearcats were a team to be reckoned with by the end of the season.

"We struggled mightily in the beginning and middle of the season," Earnest said. "We struggled to score goals all year long and we never really solved that problem. However, what we did solve as our ability to play together as a team, knowing our strengths and weaknesses and we were a very good defending team at the end of the year. Our midfield and defenders were fantastic in frustrating everyone. Our forwards started our defense with tremendous pressure on the ball up front and taking half the field away from the other team. By the end of the year, we were playing our best soccer, no question."

The frustration carried over to Earnest at times, but by tournament time, the Lady Bearcats were smiling.

"I was extremely encouraged with how we ended the year," Earnest continued. "Not only in games, but our practices became fun. We started getting what I wanted them to get and understand."

"We couldn't have ended the season playing any better. If only we were 100 percent healthy, who knows where we would have ended up."

Anderson golfers play in all-star tournament

From staff reports

Four Anderson County High School golfers were invited to participate in the Kentucky Golf Coaches Association Tournament, held Saturday at the University Club in Lexington.

Kaitlyn Riley battled cold temperatures and some wind to place sixth in the girls' championship tournament. Riley shot a 13-over 85 on the club's Big Blue Course. Riley finished nine strokes behind the winner, Brianne Coe of Russell Springs.

Tyler Harrod finished with a 15-over 87 to tie for 22nd place while Nick Wilson shot an 18-over 90.

Lee Robinson had a tough day with a 97. Christian Vining of Louisville's St. Xavier High School, took the boys' tournament with a 3-under 69 but was the only golfer to shoot par on the day. State tournament winner Fred Allen Meyer, of West Jessamine, finished second with a 74.

GOOD

and a whole lot less finger-pointing and manufacturing issues. Bullying is a serious matter, but taking a one-sided beating on the football field is not even close.

According to ESPN, losing coach John Naylor had no problems with Aledo. His team fell to 0-7 was playing a district game against a power that was averaging over 70 points a game already.

Several years ago, the state of Connecticut passed a rule that if a football team wins by more than 50 points, the coach of the team was automatically suspended the next game.

Eventually, the Connecticut Interscholastic Athletic Conference, the state's governing body for high school sports, modified the rule to require a coach to have a hearing after such a game. But some coaches have still been suspended.

In Kentucky, there is no penalty for beating a team badly. The clock is rarely stopped after a team goes up 36 points (down this year from 45). In basketball, the running clock threshold is 30 points while in baseball and softball, there is a "mercy rule" that stops games after a team gets ahead by 10 runs after five innings.

Yet, blowouts still happen. Earlier this year, Bowling Green beat Logan County 91-10. Six different Purples scored their first varsity touchdowns during the game.

Several years ago, the Anderson County baseball team beat Eminence 58-0 despite the Bearcats batting from the opposite sides of the plate and taking only one base on a batted ball.

Sometimes, blowouts just happen, even when a coach is doing all he can to hold things down.

If taking a beating on the athletic field is the worst thing that happens in life, you are going to have a mighty privileged life.

Perhaps my favorite Bill Curry quote from his time coaching the Kentucky Wildcats came after Steve Spurrier and Florida had put another whipping to the tune of 65-0 or so on his team. Curry was asked if he thought Spurrier ran the score up.

Curry gave the classic answer, "It is the job of the offense to score points and the job of the defense to stop them."

Fall a favorite time to enjoy nature's beauty

Blue-green algae found on several area lakes

My favorite time of the year has arrived once again.

I have just returned home from a business trip to Gettysburg, Pa., and actually enjoyed the eight-plus hour drive through the mountains of West Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

The brilliant fall colors of the leaves can be somewhat distracting when you're driving not to mention the wildlife. I truly have what some might call a "turkey neck" or "owl head" when driving through such wildlife-rich country.

It's hard to keep your eyes on the road sometimes due to the views God provides us in nature if we just take the time to look at them. Make sure you take the time to enjoy God's "canvas of color" this fall as autumn arrives and the leaves begin their transformations.

Cyanobacteria

Earlier this year I included some information about cyanobacteria, better known as blue-green algae, being found in Taylorsville Lake.

Well, it appears, according to recently confirmed reports from the Kentucky Division of Water, that tests show the blue-green algae has now been found in several local lakes. Our own Beaver Lake, Guist Creek Lake in nearby Shelby County, Lake Reba in Madison County and neighboring Washington County's Willisburg Lake have all been found to have levels of this algae that exceed what is considered cautionary limits.

According to the reports, exposure to the blue-green algae can lead to gastrointestinal symptoms such as stomach pain, nausea, vomiting and diarrhea. It can also cause skin, eye and throat irritation and possible breathing difficulties in some cases.

Yep, Happy Halloween but better to know than not, huh? Remember, the exposure can come from fish caught so be sure and rinse off any catch you have with clean tap water and wash hands with soap and water before and after cleaning your catch.

Keep your eyes on the water's surface. Cyanobacteria typically appears as bright green paint shimmering on the surface of the water.

Bear hunting regulations expanded

A couple years ago I went to Harlan County to hunt black bears in what was Kentucky's second modern day firearms hunt. The first one a year earlier was literally snowed out by a foot or more of snow in the eastern Kentucky mountains. There were only three open counties then.

That soon expanded to four open counties last year and now to sixteen counties in eastern Kentucky's Bear Zone which includes Bell, Clay, Floyd, Harlan, Knott, Knox, Laurel, Leslie, Letcher, Martin, McCreary, Perry, Pike, Pulaski, Wayne and Whitley. I didn't have any luck that year but still enjoyed hunting the rough terrain that is Harlan County and much of eastern Kentucky.

The modern gun season is scheduled for Dec. 14-16 and remains open until a quota of 10 bears or five female bears is reached, whichever limit hunters reach first. Once either quota is met the bear season is closed the next day.

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources has also created a separate archer/crossbow season that will run from Nov. 23-Dec. 1. The quota for this hunt is also 10 bears or five female bears whichever limit hunters reach first. Once either is reached, then the season will close.

The Department has also created several bear hunting opportunities with dogs which I personally was hoping would never happen here in Kentucky but, as usual, they didn't ask for my opinion. But, if they had, I would have advised and or voted against it given the opportunity. They did apparently ask for support and opinions from several organizations such as the Kentucky Houndsmen Association who I'm sure wasn't biased at all toward establishing what is basically coon hunting on steroids.

Anyway, there are several regulations involving bear hunting with dogs so if that's your thing then you better read up. I'm not for it so I'm not using my time here to promote it. I guess that's one of the benefits of having somewhat of a monthly "bully pulpit."

I would be curious as to what any of the readers out there think so send in some opinions.

Don't get me wrong, the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources overall does a great job managing our wildlife but I, like many others, are not always going to agree with their decisions. That's what makes our country great as I think most folks would agree. I just hope the bear hunting doesn't turn into a money making proposition like the elk lottery.

State and Bluegrass Region deer harvests

Kentucky hunters have enjoyed some good weather and the harvest results so far show just that.

As of Oct. 23, the statewide deer harvest tallied 21,121. That breakdown by harvest method is 9,084 archery, 3,957 firearm, 6,683 muzzleloader and 1,397 crossbow.

Anderson County, as of Oct. 23, is ranked 5th in the Bluegrass Harvest Region with 393 deer harvested. Our breakdown by harvest is 167 archery, 68 firearm, 130 muzzleloader and 28 crossbow.

Grant Cox, right, shows off his first-ever wild turkey harvest, this gobbler with a 9-inch beard and 7/8-inch spurs. Grant's cousin, Hunter Lilly, at left, called the bird into gun range at the family farm on the first day of early fall shotgun season.

Owen County leads the Bluegrass Harvest Region with a whopping 642 total deer harvested thru Oct. 23 with Pendleton County coming in second with 535. Boone County is third with 479 followed by Shelby County (415). Following Anderson County (5th) in sixth place is Scott County with 383 and Franklin County is in seventh with 357 deer harvested so far this year.

*I'll be in the woods in a couple different states most of November so I won't be writing a November column for Thanksgiving but would like to thank all my loyal readers that I hear from at ballgames, at the store or other places.

It helps to keep me going. Please feel free to send your thoughts, comments, harvest pictures or anything that may make a good outdoor related story to me in care of Ben or John at the News office and they will get it to me. Happy Halloween and Happy Thanksgiving!

Take a kid hunting and fishing soon!
See ya outside!

Trout stockings in October, November promise great fall fishing

By Lee McClellan

Ky. Dept. of Fish & Wildlife Resources

The severe dip in the jet stream last week brought Kentucky its first blast of cold winds since last spring. Folks are acting like we've never had winter weather before now.

People grumble under their breath about being cold and hate the idea of getting their jackets out of the closet because it means warm weather is another long winter away.

Unlike us, rainbow trout don't mind the cold. They bite willingly all year long. Trout strike baits fished through holes in the ice on lakes and in mountainous streams ringed with ice along their banks in the dead of winter. They laugh at this little bit of unpleasant weather.

The fisheries division of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources is catching up on delivering these tasty, fun fish to waters all over Kentucky.

"We are behind on our trout stockings due to the federal government shutdown as all of our trout come from Wolf Creek National Fish Hatchery just below Lake Cumberland," said Gerry Buynak, assistant director of fisheries for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife. "We hope to complete all of the October and November trout stockings by the week of Nov. 18. Check our website at fw.ky.gov for exact dates of the upcoming stockings."

These stockings include all 13 seasonal catch and release trout streams scattered across our state. These streams provide productive winter fishing as anglers may not harvest trout in these flows from Oct. 1 through March 31 annually (except the catch and release season on Swift Camp Creek in Red River Gorge National Geological Area runs until May 31). Anglers may only use artificial lures on these streams during this season. The fisheries division usually stocks these streams each October.

Last week, Beaver Creek and Elk Spring Creek in Wayne County received 500 and 400 rainbow trout, respectively. The fisheries division stocked Otter Creek in Meade County inside Ft. Knox with 500 rainbow trout and in Otter Creek Outdoor Recreation Area with 1,250 rainbow trout. Clear Creek in Bell County received 400 trout as well. These streams fall under seasonal catch and release regulations.

Cannon Creek Lake in Bell County received 3,000 rainbow trout last week. Bert Combs Lake in Clay County and Beulah Lake in Jackson County both received 1,000 trout as well as Mill Creek Lake in Powell County received 1,500 trout.

The lakes in Jefferson County enrolled in the Fishing in Neighborhoods Program got stocked with rainbow trout last week. Tom Wallace Lake gets 2,500 rainbow trout as does Waverly Park Lake. Lakes 3 and 4 in Fisherman's Park get 1,000 trout each.

Green Heron Lake (formerly known as Miles Park Lake No. 3) and Angler Lake (formerly known as Miles Park Lake No. 4) in Beckley Creek Park of the Parklands of Floyds Fork get 500 and 1,500 trout, respectively. Watterson Park Lake and Cherokee Park Lake both get 1,500 trout.

Floyds Fork Creek received 1,200 rainbow trout while the Taylorsville Lake tailwater got 500.

The fisheries division placed 12,000 rainbow trout in Lincoln County's Cedar Creek Lake and 3,500 trout in Greenbo Lake in Greenup County.

The Cumberland River below Wolf Creek Dam recently received 16,500 9-inch rainbow trout and will receive 19,700 trout of the same size in November. The fisheries division also stocked nearly 13,000 fast growing sterile 15- to 17-inch rainbow trout in the river.

"The reason we put in the larger fish is to get them into the protective slot limit so they won't be harvested immediately," Buynak said. "We are trying to jump start the Cumberland River trout fishery again after the effects of the drawdown of the lake."

A white, chartreuse, orange or red 1/16-ounce in-line spinner fished on a spinning outfit spooled with 4-pound line makes a highly productive combination for rainbow trout in both lakes and streams. In lakes, work the in-line spinner in a steady retrieve at varying depths until you find trout. On streams and tailwaters, cast the in-line spinner at the head, middle or tail of pools with a fairly quick retrieve to keep the lure from hanging the bottom. Trout will come from a good distance to hit this lure in streams.

Fall is one of the best trout fishing times. The fish are coming so get out and enjoy them before the actual cold weather hits.

The property shall be sold to raise the amounts herein-after set forth, together with interest and the costs of this action, and upon the following terms and conditions (unless otherwise indicated):

(1) At the time of the sale, the successful bidder shall either pay cash or make a deposit of ten percent (10%) of the purchase price, with the balance on credit for thirty (30) days. In the event the successful bidder elects to credit the balance, he or she will be required to post bond and furnish surety acceptable to the Master Commissioner. The bond shall be for the unpaid purchase price and bear interest and the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum until paid in full.

● ● ● A Big Job ● ● ●

When a movie begins, the names of people that helped make it are usually listed. At the top of the list is a person known as the producer.

Producers have a big job. They are the ones who make the movie happen. They find a script, hire a director, help cast actors and put together a film crew. They are also in charge of the money needed to make the movie.

Because the job is so big, movies often have more than one producer. While one producer might deal with the money, another might deal with the film crew and actors.

Jokes and Riddles

Q: How did the bee greet the flower in the movie?

A: Hi, honey!

Q: Why did the skeleton go to the movies alone?

Evidence against a loved one mounts. Search your heart, and you will know what's true. Your financial picture begins to shape up. Good job, Aries.

June 22–July 22

Homecooked goodies get a party rockin'. Enjoy, Cancer. The debate sizzles at the office until your bare-bones response shuts it all down.

September 23–October 22

Bare-bones buys send shivers up your spine. Remember your bottom line, Libra, and resist the urge to shop 'til you drop. Your pocketbook will thank you.

January 20–February 18

Time to clear the skeletons from the closet, Aquarius. Anyone involved no longer cares. An amazing offer comes your way. Take it for all it's worth.

July 23–August 22

Riskier endeavors on your part have never been taken. Relax, Leo. All will pan out. Financial records must be reviewed for the missing piece of the puzzle.

October 23–November 21

Panic attacks are not your style. You're cool, calm and collected in a crisis, and that lands you in good stead with a supervisor, Scorpio.

February 19–March 20

Nightmares of long ago plague a friend once more. You are the key to wiping the slate clean, Pisces. Fitness takes a back seat to nutrition goals.

May 21–June 21

Assignments creep up on you, and you're in over your head. Someone you least expect comes to your rescue. Thank them with bag of treats, Gemini.

August 23–September 22

Guests arrive unexpectedly. Relax, Virgo, and leave it to that special someone to get everything under control. A small gift from afar causes quite the stir.

November 22–December 21

The cat is out of the bag. You can breathe a sigh of relief now, Sagittarius. Experimentation in the kitchen leads to many tantalizing party dishes.
